The Value Proposition

Hunter Sailboats have been America's most popular for many years. With a range of models from 9' to 50', Hunter has continually offered superb choice combined with loads of comfort features, excellent sailing character and quality components to enhance your sailing experience and investment.

Today, Hunter has active distribution in 55 different countries.

Now the largest producer in the United States, Hunter's growth continues to be stimulated by our dedication to delivering value. Value isn't price - its meeting objectives in quality, safety, comfort, convenience, resale value, and other details that create a final product that our customers will be proud to own.

As a yacht manufacturer we have three broad directions we can choose: 1) Build with the cheapest components as fast as possible and give all focus to price above other decisions, or 2) Use quality components and building processes combined with efficient purchasing and volume sales to produce the most appealing yacht possible, or 3) Offer a custom yacht built to the customer's specifications. Years ago, we chose number two, and continue to dedicate our design and build process with the simple goal of building the most appealing boat at an excellent price.

Whatever your sailing desires, we hope that you take the opportunity to experience the dedication that the Hunter Design Team has put into every detail of the Hunter product range. You'll see that Hunter indeed Goes the Distance.
